Vanguard High Dividend Yield ETF

As of March 31, 2020

VYM

Investment approach

- Seeks to track the performance of the FTSE High Dividend Yield Index.
- Passively managed, full-replication approach.
- Fund remains fully invested.
- Large-cap equity, emphasizing stocks that are forecasted to have above-average dividend yields.
- Low expenses minimize net tracking error.

About the benchmark

- The FTSE High Dividend Yield Index is derived from the U.S. component of the FTSE Global Equity Index Series (GEIS).
- Includes stocks with the highest dividend yields.
- Excludes REITs, which generally do not benefit from currently favorable tax rates on qualified dividends.
- Uses buffer zones during annual rebalancing to reduce portfolio turnover.

¹ As reported in the most recent prospectus. A fund's current expense ratio may be lower or higher than the figure reported in the prospectus.

² Figures for periods of less than one year are cumulative returns. All other figures represent average annual returns. Fund performance figures assume the reinvestment of dividends and capital gains distributions; the figures are pre-tax and net of expenses. The above widely used comparative index represents unmanaged or average returns on various financial assets that can be compared with the fund's total returns for the purpose of measuring relative performance.

³ As of 4 p.m., Eastern time, when the regular trading session of the New York Stock Exchange typically closes.

⁴ Market price returns are calculated using the midpoint between the bid and offer prices at the time NAV is calculated, typically 4 p.m., Eastern time.

² For most recent fiscal year. Turnover rate excludes the value of portfolio securities received or delivered as a result of in-kind purchases or redemptions of the fund's capital shares, including Vanguard ETF Creation Units.

⁴ The holdings listed exclude any temporary cash investments and equity index products.

⁵ Sector categories are based on the Industry Classification Benchmark ("ICB"), except for the "Other" category (if applicable), which includes securities that have not been provided an ICB classification as of the effective reporting period.

Vanguard ETF® Shares are not redeemable with the issuing Fund other than in very large aggregations worth millions of dollars. Instead, investors must buy or sell Vanguard ETF Shares in the secondary market and hold those shares in a brokerage account. In doing so, the investor may incur brokerage commissions and may pay more than net asset value when buying and receive less than net asset value when selling.

All ETF products are subject to risk, which may result in the loss of principal.
